Business barometer continues to contract very slightly in January

- Just as in December, the decline in business confidence is only very slight.
- In January, this very slight drop concerns all branches of activity, except for business services where confidence among company bosses improved.

Even though confidence picked up in January in the business-related services sector, its cyclical profile remains hesitant. This month, optimism among entrepreneurs surveyed tended to be more evident in expectations for general market demand, and even more so regarding their own business activity. By contrast, they voiced more reservations in their appraisal of the current level of activity.

In the industry sector, demand and employment forecasts have recovered a bit. However, assessments of total order books as well as stock levels have deteriorated.

Employment projections have also been revised upwards in the trade sector, but this was not enough to prevent the indicator from contracting in this branch of activity, with company managers seemingly more cautious in their expectations regarding demand and orders placed with suppliers.

The business climate has deteriorated a little in the building industry. Entrepreneurs were more positive about recent trends in order books and, albeit to a lesser extent, the use of equipment. On the other hand, they appeared more cautious with their appraisals of order books, given the time of the year, and demand forecasts for the next three months.

The overall smoothed synthetic curve, which reflects the underlying cyclical trend, has more or less levelled out.

As for the results of the quarterly survey of production capacity in the manufacturing industry, they point to a slight drop in the capacity utilisation rate. The seasonally adjusted rate fell back to 78.5 % in January, compared with 79.1 % in October last year.

January brings slight rebound in consumer confidence

- The fall in the indicator that began last October has come to a halt.
- The improvement in confidence stems from the more favourable outlook for the economic situation in general and the trend in unemployment in particular.

For the first time in several months, consumers appeared more optimistic about the general economic situation expected over the next twelve months. Fears of a rise in unemployment have waned, after households had voiced concern about this in the last two months' surveys.

By contrast, the outlook on the personal front has deteriorated both as regards households' financial situation and their savings intentions.

N.B.: Due to a methodological break in the labor force survey conducted among Belgian households (LFS) from the first quarter of 2017, Eurostat can no longer provide monthly data of the harmonized unemployment rate. Pending a solution, the quarterly averages replace these monthly data.

¹ Annual or quarterly data: average of end-of-month data; monthly data: end-of-month data.

² The suppression of the unemployment control at the end of 2005 makes difficult the comparison of the series before and after 2006.

¹ New definitions for non-financial and financial corporations in accordance with the new ESA2010 methodology and reclassifications of institutional units in the government sector following a recommendation by Eurostat have caused important changes in the outstanding amounts in December 2014. Those reclassifications do not affect the actual flows.

² Outstanding amounts of securitized or otherwise transferred loans also include loans transferred to euro area credit institutions if the transferring credit institution is still responsible for collecting the principal and interest of the debtors. Note that these transferred loans are not included in the series published by the ECB.

N.B.: According to a survey conducted among credit institutions, insurance companies and mortgage companies.

The data indicate a trend and do not reflect all applications for mortgage credit or the outstanding amount of these loans. From 1995 onwards the concept of "mortgage credit" refers to the Law of 4th August 1992 concerning mortgage credit, and excludes all mortgage credit contracted for commercial purposes.

General remarks

In the various tables, the totals shown can differ from the sum of the items as a result of roundings.

The publication schedule for the most important economic statistics compiled by the Bank and the NAI is given on the Bank's website.

In order to meet the obligations imposed by the SDDS (the IMF's Special Data Dissemination Standard), this schedule also covers all the statistics included in the SDDS. Publication date are those given by the institution responsible for compiling the statistics; some of these institutions publish via their own media more detailed schedules for statistics than those given on the Bank's website.
